new Angular 2 router module? I have been messing around with Angular 2 for the past few weeks and finally decided to put it in to production mode. I decided to use the Angular 2 router module because of its small footprint and ease of use. However, I have been quite disappointed. After running this in my application:

import {RouterModule} from '@angular/router'; @NgModule({ imports: [RouterModule ], providers: [], exports: [RouterModule ] }) export class AppModule { }

I was met with this error: Uncaught Error: Unexpected value 'RouterModule' imported by the module 'AppModule' which of course makes sense because RouterModule is the angular-2 router module, whereas AppModule is the module that bootstraps the component(s) in the application. Here is the simple Angular 2 route I
